Sin against nature

In response to “Home-ophobia (11/15)” and “Ways to raise (11/8),” I give an alternative on the area of homosexuality.

As prophets have said for thousands of years, sodomy is a disgusting sin we can't accept.

Apostles have said we must love the sinner and hate the sin.

With tolerance and love, we hope people with homosexual challenges will accept the Atonement of Christ and change for the better.

However, studies show living without either a mother or a father is detrimental to the probability of successful children later in life.

Some are successful anyway, but most aren't.

Just because it's tremendously politically incorrect to state the truth doesn't mean we don't state it anyway: sexual sins, of which homosexuality is one, are not OK.

We must avoid, at all costs, letting children grow up in a home where horrible sins are modeled as acceptable.

Just as if we wouldn't want a child to grow up with a prostitute for a mother or a serial killer for a father, we shouldn't accept a lesbian, gay or transgender parental model for young people.

Kids and teenagers have enough trouble with standards and morality when they have good parents. Take a stand and say no to homosexuality, a sin against nature and a sin against God.
